Across the U.S., far too much nourishment never reaches its full potential—left behind not because of lack, but because of inefficiencies in our systems. Yet, food waste isn't just a symptom of broken supply chains; it's also a missed opportunity to repair soil, revive ecosystems, and reimagine value.

The 2026 Food Waste Summit will serve as a catalyst for change, spotlighting bold ideas and actionable strategies that go beyond diversion. We're inviting thought leaders, farmers, innovators, and entrepreneurs to explore how wasted food can become a powerful tool in regenerative agriculture-rebuilding soil health, supporting biodiversity, and closing nutrient loops in ways that restore our planet.

More than a summit, this is a movement toward circularity. Join us as we dig deep, build connections, and cultivate systems where nothing is wasted and everything has purpose.

The 2026 Food Waste Summit stands as the most distinguished annual event in this domain. This gathering serves as a pivotal forum to convene food manufacturers, restaurants, healthcare, grocery stores, government, Casinos, Education, Arenas and Airports, solution providers, forward-thinking innovators, policymakers, nonprofit organizations—all united in their commitment to advancing and adopting actionable food waste solutions.

By aligning with the Summit as a sponsor, your organization gains the opportunity to be part of an evolving movement that addresses one of the most pressing global challenges—while showcasing your commitment to sustainability, innovation, and leadership. Join us in redefining the future of food systems and sustainability for generations to come.
